

REFERENCES

Guidelines for Applying Criteria to Designate Routes for Transporting Hazardous Materials, Report Number: DOT/RSPA/OHMT-89-02, Washington, D.C., July 1989.

Guidelines for Selecting Preferred Highway Routes for Highway Route Controlled Quantity Shipments of Radioactive Materials, Report Number: DOT/RSPA/HMS/92-02, Washington, D.C., August 1992.

Kessler, Dan, Hazardous Materials Routing Study Phase II: Analysis of Hazardous Materials Truck Routes in Proximity to the Dallas Central Business District, No. Central Texas Council of Governments, Arlington, TX, October 1985.

Hildebrand, L.K. and Edward J. Barber, Implementation Package: Guidelines for Applying Criteria to Designate Routes for Transporting Hazardous Materials, Report Number FHWA-IP-80-15, Washington, D.C., 1980.

Urbanek, Gary L. and Edward J. Barber, Development of Criteria to Designate Routes for Transporting Hazardous Materials, Report Number FHWA-RD-80-105, Washington, D.C., 1980.

Risk Assessment/Vulnerability Users Manual for Small Communities and Rural Areas, Report Number: DOT/RSPA/DPB-50/81/29, Washington, D.C., October 1981.

Conference on Recent Advances in Hazardous Materials Transportation Research: An International Exchange, Preprint Volume, Transportation Research Board, National Research Council, Washington, D.C., November 1985.

Hazardous Material Transportation Monitoring and Capability Study: Agency Resource Capability, Boise State University, September 1988. Prepared for Idaho Department of Law Enforcement, and Idaho State Police.

Hazardous Material Transportation Monitoring and Capability Study for the Purpose of Assessing Risk to the Public, Boise State University, January 1988. Prepared for Idaho Department of Law Enforcement, and Idaho State Police.

Present Practices of Highway Transportation of Hazardous Materials, Task B Final Report, Literature Review, Report Number: USDOT/FHWA-RD-89-013, McLean, Virginia, January 1987. Prepared by Midwest Research Institute.

Starry, Claire, Kirtland E. McCaleb, and William A. Stock, Study of Truck Transportation of Hazardous Chemicals, SRI International, Menlo Park, California.

Transportation of Hazardous Materials, Report Number: OTA-SET-304, U.S. Congress, Office of Technology Assessment, Washington, D.C., July 1986.

Transportation of Hazardous Materials: Toward a National Strategy, Vols. 1 and 2, Special Report 197, Transportation Research Board, National Academy of Sciences, National Research Council, Washington, D.C., 1983.

Hazardous Material Movements on Oregon Highways, Flow Study, The Public Utility Commission of Oregon and the Oregon Department of Transportation, 1987.

Nevada Department of Transportation, Planning Research Division, Commodity Report Including Hazardous Material Movement, Carson City, Nevada, January 1993.

Transportation of Hazardous Materials Summary, Report Number: OTA-SET-305, Office of Technology Assessment, Washington, D.C., July 1986.

Transportation of Hazardous Materials, Report Number: OTA-SET-304, U.S. Congress, Office of Technology Assessment, Washington, D.C., July 1986.

1986 Route Segment Report: A Report on the Operation and Performance of the State Highways, Vol. 1--selected segments, and Vol.2--route segment listing, California State Highway System, 1986.

A Community Model for Handling Hazardous Material Transportation Emergencies, Report Number: DOT/RSPA/DPB/50/81/30, Washington, D.C., October 1981.

Guidelines for Emergency Response to Hazardous Materials Transportation Accidents, USDOT/RSPA/Materials Transportation Bureau, Washington, D.C., July 1980.

Lessons Learned: A Report on the Lessons Learned from State and Local Experiences in Accident Prevention and Response Planning for Hazardous Materials Transportation, Prepared for USDOT, and USEPA, December 1985.

San Francisco Bay Area Hazardous Spill Prevention and Response Plan, Vol.2: Risk Assessment, USDOT/RSPA, December 1982. Prepared by Association of Bay Area Governments.